New Consultant Guide

I'm new...now what?

What to do while you are waiting on your kit or first order to arrive:

Get set up

Go to <https://myoffice.tupperware.com>. During your registration you selected a username and password. You will use this to log in to myoffice, which is affectionately called "our back office". This is where you can place orders for you and your customers, redeem your coupons, order samples and supplies and find tools for your business. This is not for customers...just you

Your website will be www.my.tupperware.com/username. This is where customers can place their order. Share it with everyone!

Place your first order of $150+

This could be something on your wishlist, samples or an order from a friend, relative or customer. By submitting this order, you will qualify for your Welcome award. This must be done by the last day of the month you signed up.

Schedule your launch event.

The sales will help you qualify for your new consultant awards and help you qualify for the host awards too!

Watch the It's Cool2BNew Videos

This learn on demand series will help you understand the basics:

1. Must know information
2. Navigating the back office
3. Placing your first order
4. Connecting with customers
5. The Party
6. Setting up, ordering and submitting a party
7. The MORE in Tupperware

How to add to your kit...

...without going broke!

- A. At your launch party, sell $500+ and choose 2 items at half off, plus spend your host credits on items for your kit, not your kitchen. Don't forget to redeem the coupon for your WELCOME offer.
- B. Always have a personal party link created! Yes! You can still be a host! Use the host credit and half offs to add to your kit.
- C. Remember—you can use your vouchers from the Ready-Set Active Program!
